Elizabeth Armstrong, Marketing Manager at MFG Solicitors talks about their experience with the intranet, HumHub.

The Problem

“We haven’t had a proper intranet for years, if ever. Most recently we had a few static pages, but they were very basic, outdated and uninspiring. There were only a couple of links on it, so it ended up sitting dormant for years. We wanted a whole new interactive system.”

The Solution

When Conscious approached us about HumHub, it’s open source nature appealed to us for budgetary reasons as it came without the bells & whistles that a lot of intranet platforms have. It was the simplicity of the system when combined with our budget requirements that drew us in.

Using it within the team

“Each team in the company has its own space to share relevant things and interact together. There are a wide variety of posts shared such as events updates, charity fundraising, fun posts and news stories. This ensures that there’s a good mix between informative and fun posts to draw the team together. We have five offices across the West Midlands, so our HumHub based intranet now allows us to interact more easily as a big team. It’s more inclusive – we now all feel engaged and part of something.”

Three words to describe HumHub:

- Interactive: It’s allowed our team to share relevant things and interact with each other’s posts.
- Fun: – Above all it’s social! We get to share the fun side of our team in a safe space.
- User-Friendly: the HumHub interface is easy to pick up as it mirrors a lot of social media websites. Our team have taken to it very well. Of course, there will always be people who are more nervous about it – but I hope they will adapt over time.
